Horn in Bavaria in 1842, he came here in 1856 to see relatives. On this visit he became a resident of Lynchburg, which afterwards proved to be an epoch in Lynchburg, for his career changed the whole city from a struggling town to its present business activity.

He was a member of the Home Guard and served through the Civil War. At one time he was president of the local Jewish congregation. His efforts in the City Council are still being felt today in the municipal flanancial arrangements.

Mr. Guggenheimer formed what are known as the George D. Witt and Craddock Terry Shoe Companies and the Lynchburg Cotton Mill.

In 1877 he married Miss Bertha

In 1877 he married Miss Bertha V. Rosenbaum, of Richmond, who alone survives him. It is thought the body wil be brought here for burial, but the arrangements are not known yet.

"And on the other twenty-one each they didn't have to do anything but look after themselves. Day after day I used to come around to see the mother and the money she got wasn't more than enough to stall the rent man. So I used to go out and buy the mother a can of soup."

"Begging yaur parding." said Miss Burns, "but you're all mixed up in your English. I didn't want mother to marry you because she'd have to support you."

NEW YORK. Special.—Despite the protests of his wife, because of his lack of experience, Thomas F. Ryan, of 775 Ocean Avenue, Jersey City, took the wheel of his new seven-passenger touring car Sunday and lost control on a down grade of Mount Pleasant Avenue, just west of Livingston Centre, six miles from Orange, N. J. He was killed when the machine turned upside down in the ditch at the side of the road. The car pinned him under it and broke his neck.

The six other occupants of the automobile escaped serious injury. Mrs. Ryan, whose face was cut and who suffered from nervous shock, was attended at the Orange Memorial Hostital and then went home in a taxicab with the other survivors. The bedy

CHICAGO, ILL.— Special.— Mrs. Florence Bernstein was acquitted Wednesday night of killing her husband as he lay sleeping. The verdict was returned after the jury had been out twenty-six hours and after it had announced to the court that it could not reach an agreement. The verdict came as a surprise, Mrs. Bernstein's defense was that she could recall none of the happenings in mediately preceding or following the primaries. The vote there has been rather light.

The Progressive vote throughout the State was very light. Figures so far received show that only a little over 2,000 were cast in the entire State. Of these about 700 were polled in Detroit.
